Farm Bureau Meeting Success

1973 Virginia State Legislature. Of 29 bills, 26 were passed as favored by the Farm Bureau. A few of these Mr. Moffett mentioned: Land use Tax Bill was amended; No Fault insurance reached an impass; Farmers exempted from Erosion and Sediment Control Law; Pari-Mutual Betting Bill failed; Secured $68,000 in budget bill for Gypay Moth control; Eleminated the 108 inches width limit for tractors traveling on the highways; Unit pricing of all food items in supermarkets was defeated; Door to door salesmen legilation was passed; Uninsured Motor Vehicle fee was increase from $50 to $100.

Some of the major issues for 1974 will be: No Fault Insurance, Pari-Mutual Betting, The Highway Trust Fund, Agriculture research, $250,000 for Nurse Practioners.

According to Mr. Moffett the boycott has drastically reduced meat sales but the markets have been confused and erractic in price. Pres. Kaufus held a national press conference and condemned the price ceilings on heat.

Mr. Moffett stated that food prices will be higher as we cannot produce at 1960 cost levels and we shall oppose cheap food policy of 1960's.

Our theme is helping farm families. Farm Bureau is a growing organization. We are successful because of strong county organization, our economic service program and last but not least, responsive county leaders to legislative issues.

Farm Price Outlook

LAMBS

President Nixon's March 29 order placing a ceiling on meat prices at the retail and wholesale levels should limit the normal seasonal rise in lamb prices.

Cold storage holdings of lamb and mutton as of March 1 were 11 million pounds - 15 per cent below a year earlier. Sheep and lamb on feed in the 7 nmajor feeding states as of March 1 totaled 941,000 - 7 per cent below 1972. Inventory of all sheep at the beginning of the year was 17.7 million - a continuation of the downward trend begun in 1960. The inventory of stock sheep was down 6 per cent from last year.

January lamb slaughter was off 3 per cent from a year earlier. Federal inspections were down 8 per cent in February, and thus far in march they are off about 10 per cent. The early lamb crop in Texas, Kansas, and California was 4 per cent below the previous year.

Lamb prices at Virginia auctions last week were $40.00 - $44.00 per cwt. for choice and prime 90-115 lb. lambs. prices ranged from $39.00 - $41.00 per cwt. for choice and prime 80-90 lb. lambs. In the mid-west last Wednesday, prices for choice and prime wool 90-115 lb. lambs were $39.00 - $40.00 per cwt., and spring lambs weighing 85-105 lbs. were $37.50 - $41.00 per cwt.

TURKEYS

Turkey prices are expected to remain firm due to continued strong demand and improved competitive position with respect to other meats.

$831,000 Saved Locally In Past Year

spending figures are based upon national findings reported by the Federal Reserve Board and the Commerce Department and upon the latest income and spending figures for the local area.

As would be expected, they show that the amount a family saves is directly related, in most cases, to how much it has left after paying its bills for necessities.

Those with very small incomes are able to save little or nothing, of course. They are hard pressed to get along at all, the way prices are rising.

Families with net incomes of $7,000, after taxes, saved about 4.5 percent of it, on average, and those at the $10,000 level, approximately 6.2 percent. Beyond that, the proportion was considerably greater.

In Appomattox County, where the latest annual figures show average disposable income per household in the $6,000 to $7,000 range, the overall rate of savings is around 4.2 percent. It amounts to $270 per household.

For the entire local population it adds up to approximately $831,000.

Assumed is that families in each income bracket, throughout the country, save at the same rate as those in other areas with similar incomes.

Roanoke To Host World Championship Bluegrass

The String Music Association (S.M.A.) if finalizing its first Annual World Championship Ole Time Fiddler, Bluegrass, Banjo and Gospel Competition to be presented at Victory Stadium and South Roanoke Park on August 3rd, 4th and 5th.

S.M.A. is a non-profit association of musicians and artists organized by Howard D. Wolfe, founder of Dinner Theatre in America for the preservation and presentation of the Early Scotch, Irish and English music brought to the Appalachian Mountains by the first settlers. It flows down out of mountains as clear and pure as it is fresh in two main streams, Old Time and Bluegrass. It is the basic music of America, played without electric amplifiers and almost exclusively with stringed instruments; a fiddle, banjo, mandolin, guitar and stringed bass, and sometimes, the autoharp or dulcimer. The tunes played by these groups are old, many of them hundreds of years old, and most of them have a deep rooted history, dating back to pioneer days of America or earlier.

S.M.A. is inviting string musicians from all over the world to come to Roanoke and compete for gold trophies, cash prizes and S.M.A. awards. The gate receipts of $3.00 per day will be divided with the musicians, (less expenses) performing in the competition which is expected to be from $25,000.00 to $50,000.00 in prize money.

State and National advertising and promotion is being consolidated to encourage music lovers and tourists to come to Roanoke for the festival. A large number of folk-art craftsmen,artist,sculptors, banjo makers and even basket weavers will display their arts for sale to the tourists and for judging. The artists and craftsmen are invited to participate at no cost to them other than the admission.

Other S.M.A. festivals in West Virginia, Tennessee and Virginia will send their winning contestants to the World Championship in Roanoke for competition. Other State associations are being formed to send their talents to Roanoke in future years. S.M.A. is producing ten other preliminary festivals this summer and is encouraging the non-professional musicians to register for competition by writing S.M.A., P. O. Box 8085, Roanoke, Virginia, 24014.

Revenue Service Question & Answer Column

This column of questions and answers on Federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers.

Q - I should receive a refund when I file my Federal income tax return. Can I still designate $1 of my tax towards the Presidential Election Campaign fund?

A - Yes. Every individual (other than a nonresident alien) may participate in the presidential Election Campaign Fund if he has a tax liability of $1 or more ($2 or more for joint return filers).

In addition, completion of Form 4875 in your tax forms package to designate the check-off will not change any of the figures on your Form 1040 or 1040A.

Q - Will the IRS still figure out a person's tax, if he wants them to?

A - Yes. The Internal Revenue Service will figure out your tax if your adjusted gross income is $20,000 or less and was only from wages, salary and tips, dividends, interest, pensions and annuities, and if you claim the standard deduction. For more details, see your tax form instructions.

Q - Are there any limits on how much my husband and I may claim for babysitting and mail service expenses incurred while I am out working?

A - You are allowed a deduction of up to $400 per month for expenses for the dependent care of 3 or more of your children and household expenses provided in your home; (1) if your dependents are under 15 and you are entitled to claim an exception for them; (2) if your dependents are physically or mentally incapable of caring for themselves, regardless of age.

You are allowed a deduction of up to $300 per month for the children and up to $200 per month for one child, respectively. Of course, these expenses must be incurred to enable you to be gainfully employed and you must furnish over half the cost of maintaining the household that includes the dependent. Your deduction child care expenses must be reduced by one-half of the amount by which your adjusted gross income exceeds $18,000 for one year. This means that you may have up to $27,600 in income before your Child care deduction is phaseout.

For more details, including the income limitations on the deduction, see IRS Publication 503, "Child Care and Disabled Dependent Care." It's available free by writing your Internal Revenue Service district office.

Q What do you mean by "adjusted gross income"?

A - This is the total income that appears on line 17 of your Form 1040. Adjusted gross income is arrived at by subtracting business expenses and certain employee expenses, such as sick pay, moving expenses, etc. from your gross income. For most taxpayers, however, adjusted gross income is equivalent to their total income.

This year, Your Form 1040 instructions contain a glossary of frequently used tax terms to make it easier for you to fill out your return.

The Day of the Surrender

by Miss Cindy Guill

Note: The following is the copy of speech given by Miss Cindy Guill, 15 year old 10th grade student at Appomattox County High School. We felt that it would surely be interesting to our readers and in keeping with the 107th anniversary of the ending of the War Between The States when the peace was made at Appomatox.

I am standing on the grassy hillside near the McLean HOUSE in Appomattox, April 9, 1973. It is afternoon and the bright sun glistens on the white steps of the McLean house. I watch crowds of people from many states wandering about the village, from the store to the tavern, and then to the courthouse and jail, and finally to the McLean house. I wonder about the activity that place here over one hundred and seven years ago and my thoughts wander back to that eventful day in American history. When after a long seige of war our country was once again united. As I stand there I can almost hear the tramp, tramp of the soldiers and see their sad faces as they prepare to assist General Lee in doing what he thinks is best for them and the rest of the country.

"The weary war is coming to an end. General Lee's army is tired and worn, hungry and without clothing and ammunition. Several days before the actual surrender, on April 4, Lee had the remainder of his army pretty well assembled at Amelia Court House. There he had hoped to obtain food sent by train to his way station on the Richmond and Danville, 33 miles from Petersburg. But all Lee found was ammunition for his guns. There was nothing to eat for his hungry men and horses.

"On April 5, he headed for Farmville, evidently trying to escape to Lynchburg now that the Federal forces had blocked the way to Danville.

"Saylor's Creek on the 6th day of April was disastrous to Lee's men. 7,000 were captured or killed by the Northern Army. But Lee's troops pushed on through Farmville and then here to the Appomattox Court House grounds.

"Lee sent several letters to Grant in regards to what the terms of surrender would be. Grant finally convinced Lee on April 9 that further resistance of the surrender was useless. So at daybreak he sent a message requesting a meeting with Grant to discuss the terms of surrender of his army, and turning to his men, Lee said, "There is nothing left for me to do but to go and see General Grant, and I would rather die a thousand deaths". All the agonizing memories of Gettysburg, the wilderness, and Chanclersville, had prompted this decision.

"As I turn and look around I can see the famous McLean House and my thoughts again go back; for this is where Lee had selected for their meeting in the parlor of Wilmer McLean's house. Back when the war was young, McLean had lived in Prince William County Virginia. Over his land in 1861, North and South fought the first big fight; the Battle of Bull Run. A year later, they fought there again. McLean then moved to Appomattox Court House to get away from the war. Never the less, he now found himself in the midst of the final act.

"Tears suddenly fill my eyes, as I imagine seeing those men in gray-ragged uniforms, who are all hungry, bone-weary soldiers march up the hill from the Appomattox River to meet General Grant for the purpose of surrender.

"Lee came first to the tables of surrender in the McLean House, and somehow I too feel the anxiety and stress he must have felt awaiting General Grant's arrival.

"It was about 1:30 p.m. on April 9 when Grant, mud-spattered rides up to the McLean House and enters the parlor. Lee rises and the two great generals shake hands.

"It impressed me greatly to think of how friendly their conversation must have been. General Grant opened the conversation by saying he remembered General Lee very well from the Mexican War. He did not expect Lee to remember him because of their differences in ages and ranks at that time.

"Lee said something about remembering meeting him in Mexico, but having not been able to remember his features.

"Then the conversation takes on a serious note, as they prepare to go over the agreements of surrender. Grant took out his order book and handed it to his secretary, Col. Eli Samuel Parker, who was a full-blooded Seneca Indian, and who would write down the agreement between these two great men.

"A strange feeling overwhelmed me as I think of a red man writing down the terms of peace between two white men who have fought four years of war over the black man.

"In this agreement General Grant allows General Lee and his men to keep their side arms and their horses and mules, so that the reconstruction of the South could begin.

"Through the village and over the river to the hard task of breaking the news of the surrender to his men and to tell them farewell, returning to his army, encamped on the slope above the Appomattox River, Lee spoke a few heartbroken words,"Men, we have fought through the war together, and I have done my best for you. You will all be paroled and allowed to go to your homes...the war is over."

"On Palm Sunday, April 9,1865, there was a reconciliation of gentlemen with gentlemen at Appomattox and to quote Charles Fransis Adams, 'This has become the finest episode in American history.'
